

AS English Language

Task

Please attempt any ONE of the following tasks:

1. i. Collect 5 texts from a range of genres, purposes and audiences (raid the recycling bin) – these could be take-out menus, clean food packaging, junk mail, bills, magazine or newspaper adverts or articles. Ensure your 5 texts are varied for many different reasons.

ii. Label these A-E and find as many different similarities and differences that you can based on the language, images, layout, and purposes.

iii. Create a table with the 4 categories (language, images, layout, purposes) and identify which texts you have grouped and why. You can re-use texts for further grouping combinations. Do not group more than 3 texts at a time. E.g. A & C (language) use of direct address to persuade. C & D (layout) bullet points to structure the information.

2. i. Record a 1-2 minute real-life conversation and transcribe including the symbols (.) (1) (2) etc. for pauses. Illustrate overlaps in speech with this symbol alongside the words overlapped.

ii. Do the same for 1-2 minutes of a well-known TV drama/soap. Compare and contrast both spoken transcriptions. In a table format make a list of the features you can identify in both texts and comment on their significance in relation to the purpose, audience and whether it is spontaneous or scripted speech.

3. Consider your creative writing interests. You will have to produce two original pieces of writing during your AS studies. Start a scrap book of ideas and include examples of texts from magazines, newspapers, monologues, films, speeches, websites and novels etc. These have to be of interest to you.

Task

Analysing Language and Power

Below is the beginning of the inauguration speech given by Barack Obama on the day he was sworn in as President of the USA:

Read the speech very closely and answer the questions which follow.

(It might help you to watch the speech in full – this is available on Youtube)

“My fellow citizens:

I stand here today humbled by the task before us, grateful for the trust you have bestowed, mindful of the sacrifices borne by our ancestors. I thank President Bush for his service to our nation, as well as the generosity and co-operation he has shown throughout this transition.

Forty-four Americans have now taken the presidential oath. The words have been spoken during rising tides of prosperity and the still waters of peace. Yet, every so often the oath is taken amidst gathering clouds and raging storms. At these moments, America has carried on not simply because of the skill or vision of those in high office, but because we, the people, have remained faithful to the ideals of our forbears, and true to our founding documents.

So it has been. So it must be with this generation of Americans.

That we are in the midst of crisis is now well understood. Our nation is at war, against a far-reaching network of violence and hatred. Our economy is badly weakened, a consequence of greed and irresponsibility on the part of some, but also our collective failure to make hard choices and prepare the nation for a new age. Homes have been lost; jobs shed; businesses shuttered. Our healthcare is too costly; our schools fail too many; and each day brings further evidence that the ways we use energy strengthen our adversaries and threaten our planet.

These are the indicators of crisis, subject to data and statistics. Less measurable but no less profound is a sapping of confidence across our land - a nagging fear that America's decline is inevitable, that the next generation must lower its sights.

Today I say to you that the challenges we face are real. They are serious and they are many. They will not be met easily or in a short span of time. But know this, America - they will be met.

On this day, we gather because we have chosen hope over fear, unity of purpose over conflict and discord. AS English Bridging Unit

On this day, we come to proclaim an end to the petty grievances and false promises, the recriminations and worn-out dogmas, that for far too long have strangled our politics. ”

How does Obama use language and rhetorical devices to make the listening public feel as though they share both power and responsibility for the future of the country in his speech?

Refer to specific evidence from the text in your answer.

KEY SKILL TO REMEMBER

Effective use of language is vital to the success of a speech. Whether you are a son/daughter asking your parents for pocket money or a world leader addressing your nation, use of effective vocabulary is essential. During this course you will be required to analyse how language is used in both written form and in speech.

Task 3 – Using Language to show a specific character's views

AS English Literature

TASK

This course develops and refines your research skills; a key part of this research is using a variety of sources to access information.

Understanding the life and times of writers and how the life they lived influenced their writing is vital for this course.

Using a variety of resources (the internet/the academy library/your local library) research each of the following writers. Use the bullet points below as a guide.

1 Angela Carter

2 Khaled Hosseini

5 Emily Bronte

6 Tennessee Williams

For each writer, research the following details:

- ☐ The years in which he/she lived
- ☐ Where he/she lived during his/her life
- ☐ What kind of work he/she produced
- ☐ Important historical events which happened during (or just before) his/her lifetime
- ☐ What was happening in terms of the arts (music/film/theatre/art etc) at the time
- ☐ Anything else you feel may have influenced him/her

 For each writer you research, write down any websites or books that you use. This is something you will have to do for all written coursework during the year. This is called referencing.

e.g. <http://www.angelacartersite.co.uk/>

KEY SKILL TO REMEMBER

All writers are influenced by the things that are happening around them during their lives. Often, these influences can be seen in their work. It is important, therefore, that you are aware of the historical context in which a text is written and you are also able to comment on the relevance of this context.

Task

On the course you will need to analyse prose and drama texts. Read this extract and then answer the question that follows.

It is six o'clock the following evening. BLANCHE is bathing. STELLA is completing her toilette. BLANCHE's dress, a flowered print, is laid out on STELLA's bed.

[STANLEY enters the kitchen from outside, leaving the door open on the perpetual 'blue piano' around the corner.]

STANLEY: What's all this monkey doings?

STELLA: Oh, Stan! [She jumps up and kisses him, which he accepts with lordly composure.] I'm taking Blanche to Galatoires' for supper and then to a show, because it's your poker night.

STANLEY: How about my supper, huh? I'm not going to no Galatoires' for supper! STELLA: I put you a cold plate on ice.

STANLEY: Well, isn't that just dandy!

STELLA: I'm going to try to keep Blanche out till the party breaks up because I don't know how she would take it. So we'll go to one of the little places in the Quarter afterwards and you'd better give me some money.

STANLEY: Where is she?

STELLA: She's soaking in a hot tub to quiet her nerves. She's terribly upset.

STANLEY: Over what?

STELLA: She's been through such an ordeal.

STANLEY: Yeah?

STELLA: Stan, we've--lost Belle Reve!

STANLEY: The place in the country?

STELLA: Yes.

STANLEY: How?

STELLA [vaguely]: Oh, it had to be--sacrificed or something. [There is a pause while STANLEY considers. STELLA is changing into her dress.] When she comes in be sure to say something nice about her appearance. And, oh! Don't mention the baby. I haven't said anything yet, I'm waiting until she gets in a quieter condition.

STANLEY [ominously]: So?

STELLA: And try to understand her and be nice to her, Stan.

BLANCHE [singing in the bathroom]: "From the land of the sky blue water, They brought a captive maid!"

STELLA: She wasn't expecting to find us in such a small place. You see I'd tried to gloss things over a little in my letters.

STANLEY: So?

STELLA: And admire her dress and tell her she's looking wonderful. That's important with Blanche. Her little weakness!

STANLEY: Yeah. I get the idea. Now let's skip back a little to where you said the country place was disposed of.

STELLA: Oh!--yes ...

STANLEY: How about that? Let's have a few more details on that subject. AS English Bridging Unit

Question- What do you learn about the characters of Stella, Stanley and Blanche? Give examples to help support your ideas
